Art Unit: 2613

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential steps, such omission amounting to a gap between the steps. See MPEP § 2172.01. The omitted steps are: in claim 1, the applicant claims "estimating..." yet it does not appear it this step is then used in any way. The feedback signal is based on the extracted and processed signals. Likewise, in claim 9, the digital signal processor estimates amplitude and phase. It is unclear why it does this since the estimated signal is never used. It is further unclear why in claims 4 and 13, these signals are never used. In claim 9, it does not appear that a separate output signal is supplied by the estimating.

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

4. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because in claim 1, the applicant claims "estimating..." yet it does not appear it this step is then used in any way. The feedback signal is based on the extracted and processed signals. Likewise, in claim 9, the digital signal processor estimates amplitude and phase. It is unclear why it does this since the estimated signal is never used. It is further unclear why in claims 4 and 13, these signals are never used. In claim 9, it does not appear that a separate output signal is supplied by the estimating. Under the present guidelines of 101, the method/function lacks usefulness because this function/method step is not used.

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Buchman et al, Takehano, Nagakubo, Miyata, Schaffner and Fujiwara teach intensity modulators that monitor the input and output to come up with correction signals.

6. It would appear that none of the above references teach estimation of phase and frequency band to cancel a required frequency. It would appear that the applicant has allowable subject matter. It would appear that if the above 112 problems were corrected to include the connection/method of using the correction signal from the estimation means/step; the applica.1

would be allowable over the prior art. This would also overcome the 101 rejections. If the applicants have questions, they are welcome to call the examiner.
